A photograph of a snowy canal in Amsterdam. In the foreground, a dark metal railing is heavily laden with snow, and two bicycles are leaning against it, their frames and wheels also covered in snow. The canal water is dark and reflects the surrounding scene. On the left bank, there are several multi-story brick buildings with many windows. Bare trees line the canal, their branches dusted with snow. In the background, a small bridge crosses the canal. The sky is overcast and grey.

The background of the slide is an aerial photograph of a coastal landscape. It shows a large body of water with varying shades of blue and green, a rocky shoreline in the foreground, and a small settlement or farmstead on a peninsula in the distance under a bright, slightly cloudy sky.
